Bars

To refresh yourself and having a drink in the evening, Barceló Punta Umbría Beach Resort has several top category bars.

La Retama & La Canaleta, pool bars overlooking the Natural Park of Los Enebrales, where you can enjoy the light of Huelva’s sunset.

Isla Saltés & El Portil, 2 large spaces with TV where you can relax and enjoy an excellent selection of national and international drinks.

At El Faro, you will find an exclusive atmosphere, perfect to taste our wide variety of cocktails and drinks.

Gastronomy

The different cultures settled in this province have created a very wealthy gastronomy. We can highlight:

Fish and seafood: white shrimp, anchovies, cuttlefish, clams, etc.

Meats: Iberian pork is the most appreciated meat.

Mushrooms: there is a great variety in Huelva, but one of the most typical is the one called “gurumelo”.

Pastry with great Andalusian influence, where almonds and honey are the basis of “alfajores”, “polvorones”, etc.

Olive oil is closely linked to Andalusian gastronomy. The province of Jaén is the largest producer of olive oil in the world.

We can not forget the strawberries: one of the pillars of Huelva’s economy. They are exported all over Europe; a fruit highly appreciated for its vitamins and flavor.

Enviroment

Huelva receives the last light of South Spain, 3.200 hours of sunshine that invite us to enjoy this area intensely.

Beaches

Punta Umbria has 13km of fine golden sand surrounded by natural spaces with great ecological value.

Nature

The hotel is in a very special area, the Natural Park of the Enebrales, which has among its guests two protected species: chameleon and the coastal juniper.

Culture

The British legacy is very present since the times of the mining boom in Huelva.
